JONES ON SILVER.

Senator Jones has come out flat footed for the Silver Party, if the New York interview of last Saturday is not contradicted.

He says what the radical Silver men have said for the past year, and what the APPEAL said eighteen months ago, that there must be a new party to secure justice to the people, on the silver question.

He also intimates that when the day of reckoning comes, it need not be a matter of surprise if the debtors and producing class, should retaliate on gold and serve it as the gold men have served silver.

While he hints at the possibility of such action, he does not commit himself to endorsing it.

To treat the gold men in the same unfair and unjust way that the hogs of Wall street have treated silver, would serve no good end, and if the political party, which was on top were to each in turn retaliate on the money question, it would result in a widespread unsettling of values, which would keep the commercial world in a chaos of recurring panics and the producing and working classes would be more than ever at the mercy of speculators and money gamblers.

It is to be hoped that such a state of affairs will never be inaugurated in the United States.

The Silver men, while fully realizing the wrongs they have suffered, will never resort to a system of retaliation, which might cause distress to the whole country, merely to punish a few rascals, who have systematically conspired to squeeze the producing classes.

The Silver party is in the field to bring about a parity of values and nothing more.

THE DECLARATION.

The Declaration of Independence is a big document, bigger than the Emancipation Proclamation and bigger than Magna Charter.

It represents the combined brains and deliberation of a lot of very large statesmen, but for all that, there is no valid reason why each 4th of July millions of Americans should stand in the hot sun for half an hour, (it always seems three hours) to hear it drawled over by some man who imagines that he is interesting the crowd instead of boring it.

This infernal Declaration has driven more people away from celebration than any ten things combined.

Patriots in America can stand rain and dust and high winds on the natal day of liberty, but few, none in fact, like this annual inflection of the reading of the Declaration.

Years ago the writer stood in the sun at 98, for nearly an hour, while an old lunatic sprawled along over the Declaration, and several women fainted from exhaustion before he got through.

We feel certain that we shed half a gallon of perspiration before he finished, and vowed we would never again attend a celebration where the reading of the Declaration was announced on the bills. We have kept our vow.

The story of the decline of silver is eloquently told in the table of readjusted postal salaries in Nevada. For the first time since the development of the Comstock, Virginia City yields first place to another town, and not only that, but has a rival for second. Last year Virginia, going down, met Reno climbing up, and the Postmaster of each place was allowed $2,000., while the one at Carson was given $1,800. This year Virginia drops to $1,900, while Carson climbs to the same figure and Reno mounts to $2,100. The glory of the Comstock has departed, and Nevada is no longer the appendage of a mining camp.

Denver's goldbug organ might be in better business than casting slurs and venting ill-natured criticisms upon the silver senators of Colorado and Nevada. Teller, Wolcott, Stewart and Jones have never failed in their loyalty to the cause of free coinage.—Denver News.
